

I am quite familiar with most aspects of radio broadcasting. I must vigorously protest, and advise you not to even consider any further, the use of power lines for any transmissions. Power lines are in all neighborhoods and are in very poor condition already, and causing a considerable amount of interference all over the nation.

I am told that Japan already has studied the use of power lines for transmissions and have found it to be a detriment to the public. Therefore it has been turned down in it's entirety.

We have people in the FCC who are qualified and cannot be bought by big power. We implore you to turn down any further consideration of using power lines for anything but power.

Also make the power companies responsible for finding and eliminating the electronic interference it is putting in our great communities at this time.
